Profile

Short story

I'm a simple person who loves simple things.

Long short story

I was born in Lisbon, Portugal, but moved right away to the middle of the country - near the beautiful Serra da Estrela - then to Cartaxo where I spent most of my childhood. Now I'm back in Lisbon again.

I'm left handed and always liked to draw.

I'm currently working at Critical TechWorks, supporting the design of the next generation of software systems for the BMW Group's future driving machines.

I tend to describe myself as an User Interface designer, User Experience thinker, and a Front-end enthusiast.
